

RED STAG HUNTING IN POLAND. HUNTING AREA FREE-RANGE OF STUNNING BEAUTY

OFFER

HUNTING DISTRICT – FREE RANGE

Hunting takes place in a beautiful hunting district about 70 km north of Wrocław. The district covers a total area of approximately 8,000 hectares and is located in the immediate vicinity of a beautiful national park. There is a large complex of ponds within the district. This area is dedicated to red stag hunting, especially during the rutting season. Hunting is organised as a mixture of still hunting from a high seat and stalking. Some hunting outputs are organised only from a high seat, while others are organised as pure stalking. In some cases, hunting days start from the high seat and then the hunters stalk to follow the movements of the stags. The local staff are experienced in guiding foreign hunters and speak good English. This area is usually very popular because of its beauty and because it is not so common to hunt stags coming out of the ponds. Approximately 30 stags are taken each year with trophies up to 7.5-8kg, but heavier trophies up to record stags of almost 11 kg are not uncommon. These are low specific weight trophies, so they are very large and often have a very high CIC in relation to weight.

HOTEL

Guests are accommodated in a nice Hotel in a village about 17 km from the hunting area. This is a newly built hotel with well-furnished and functional rooms. The hotel restaurant serves tasty Polish cuisine accompanied by excellent local beer.
